Hemophilia Federation Adds State Policy Expertise

Washington DC: Hemophilia Federation of America (HFA) is proud to welcome Stephen May in the newly created leadership position of Public Policy, State Affairs. The position was created to ramp up state-level advocacy diligence in response to community concerns of an ever-changing, turbulent healthcare landscape. The position's responsibility includes pro-active public policy monitoring by collaborating and offering support to HFA member organizations.

Before joining the HFA, May provided advocacy for the bleeding disorder community at the New England Hemophilia Association. His previous experience includes extensive work in organized labor, public policy and state political campaigns.

Mr. May holds a Master's degree in Social Work from the University of Vermont and an MA in Political Science from the University of Rhode Island, in addition to a Bachelor's degree in Politics from Ithaca College.

The Hemophilia Federation of America is a national 501 (c) (3) organization consisting of 30 member organizations and numerous individual members who offer assistance and grassroots advocacy on behalf of the bleeding disorders community. Incorporated in 1994, the HFA provides programs and services to improve the quality of life for persons with hemophilia and von Willebrand disease (VWD).
